

Halal food is that which is permissible in Islam. This applies not only to the type of food but also to how it is prepared. For meat to be considered halal, the animal must be blessed before slaughter. In the UK, most chicken and lamb is blessed before slaughter. This is common practice and helps reduce food waste by allowing parts of the animal not commonly consumed here to be exported. This is less common with beef.

Our animal welfare policy requires that all animals are stunned before slaughter, ensuring they do not experience pain. Our chicken and lamb suppliers meet our welfare requirements and provide meat that is blessed, which is therefore considered halal by many British Muslim families.

Our requirements for our butchers focus on animal welfare, quality, and traceability. As we do not specifically request halal certified meat, we do not label our meals as halal. However, we are always happy to share detailed information so families can make informed decisions about whether particular dishes meet their dietary needs. We can also share certification, and we would always inform our nursery partners in advance if our meat supply were to change.

Our aim is for every child to enjoy as many nutritious meals as possible. Please feel free to share the attached list with families, which outlines the dishes they may wish to consider based on their dietary preferences.
